BUS 382 Junior Seminar
Fall 2017 Syllabus

Course Coordinator: Tina Giannakopoulos (tgianna@emory.edu)

OBJECTIVE
The objective of this course is to fully engage you in a variety of co-curricular events that will enhance your personal and professional development. In addition to programming provided by the school, and opportunities to learn from outside professionals, some events organized by student organizations will also count towards junior seminar credit. Programming will be provided in career management, business research, leadership, technology, and academic skills & professional development. Finally, attendance at speaker events will generally count towards the session requirement.

In general 4-5 junior seminar sessions are offered each week. The dates and times of available sessions can be found on the “Junior Seminar” page of the BBA Portal. Each offering will count for 1 session credit unless multiple points are determined by the BBA Program Office.

Grading - Upon completion of 6 junior seminar sessions, you will receive a grade of Satisfactory. If you fail to complete a total of 6 sessions during the semester in which you are enrolled in BUS 382 (this number will include any carry-over sessions from previous semesters that you attended), you will receive a grade of Unsatisfactory for that semester, and will need to re-enroll in the course for the next semester.

Note about Limited-Seating Seminars - To ensure you receive the best educational experience possible, some seminars have been designated as limited-seating seminars. Please click on the session link for the seminar to ascertain whether the session is a sign-up session or if everyone is welcome. This information can be found in the description or by scrolling down to the “RSVP Link” information.

Attendance and Conduct
• Your grade is based solely on attendance and participation. There is no homework in this class.
• Students must attend the seminars in their entirety to receive credit. Most sessions are scheduled for 1-2 hours. No student will be allowed to arrive late or leave early. Such behavior is unprofessional and disrespectful to the presenter.
• Students are required to sign in using their Emory ID. Failure to be present in the session for the entire time will result in zero credit being awarded for that session.
• Other than a blank notebook, no laptops, cell phones, papers or other materials may be out at any time during these seminars. Anyone not paying attention will be asked to leave and will receive no credit.
• It is a violation of the Honor Code to sign in for any session that you do not attend, or to sign in another student. Any student who is signed in and not present will be brought up on Honor Code charges. It does not matter to who signed the student in, the student whose name appears will be held responsible. Our recommendation to the Council for false signature is an Honor Council F as a permanent notation to your transcript (with no credit given for seminars already completed). A second infraction will result in academic suspension from the Business School.
